

Abstract Of The Disclosure

In a network bridge, means are provided for monitoring the contents and/or volume of incoming and/or outgoing data that are flowing through the network bridge or its memory. The means can be configurable and/or controllable by a higher-level 5 instance, or can be predefined.